A good way to learn about finances and how to manage them

Cool to learn how you can be your own financier and accountant

Fun class challenged my mind

Great Professor. Teaches you real life scenarios very clearly.

Great course.

He was a very nice professor who made this class understandable to take.

I would recommend this class to fellow students because it is not only interesting to learn about these topics, but relative and will always be relative.

It is a very good class to take if you just need to take it for a gen ed requirement and the content is very interesting and the professor is good.

Learn very important financial information that will be crucial in life

Only take this course if its required for your major or minor.

Our prof. is very thorough in his explanations of how to do our work

The course content is great to know as a young adult. It all depends on the professor and how they teach. Not everyone learns the same way, and if you are not attending to all the students needs, some students are going to feel lost and lose motivation.

This class started off great but went off track quickly with the assignments that we did. I was recommended to take this class from a friend and it was so much harder than she described. She also changed up the criteria for the worse helps with, how I can control my money- and finances in the future

important materials

It was interesting and is helpful for becoming an independent adult

Personal finance is an important part of life and so it is something that will help throughout life.

Give more assignments

I dont think anything needs to be improved. All of the material was explained correctly and effieciently and any questions we had were answered very clearly.

I feel that his professor could have went over the homework and tests instead of commenting on our assignments with what we did wrong. I would have liked to been able to physically see it and discuss what I should have done.

I think you should put up videos of you explaining how to do the work like you did for your classes in the fall. I aslo think you should slows down when teaching and try to make the class more engaing also pleas enevr teach in the center for design thinking again and get a classroom in brownson

In all honesty, I think the professor did a very good job overall. No changes necessary

The only thing I would say to improve the class is to dive a bit deeper into doing in class exercises that exemplify some of the subjects. Such as stocks.

Overall I really enjoyed this class and found Professor Nimish to be patient, understanding and a great educator.

This professor needs to actively listen to a student when they say to slow down, this is not a course that you can speed through. I have told this professor many times you need to slow down because I am not able to obtain all the information in class because you go through the worksheets so fast and don't go back. Since I have a different laptop than the professoor I do not have tthe same setup oon excel that he does. So there are going to be certain things he is able to do and I am not. I expressed this to him through email, during class time and through office hours and they never helped me. There was a point in the semester I attended class through zoom because I wasn't feeling well and I expressed through the zoom chat I was not able to follow the material because I was not able too see what he was talking about and I am a visual learner. I sent multiple messages through zoom chat and he never asked the people through zoom if we were able to follow or we understand what's going o

You did good but two things I suggest is if multiple students doesnt do well on test, go over the test during class so students can understand what they did wrong. Also when it comes to doing the excel sheet take your time and slow down so student can follow you.

i enjoyed the class how it was structered and taught.

I think the classroom environment was fine but it overall was not as useful of a class as I thought it would be

I would definitely take this professor again :)

No real effect

Overall good class

The effects of COVID on this course were nothing different to any other course. We just had to wear masks and if we were sick we were still able to attend class on zoom.

The only positive effect that came from covid was the easily accessible classroom from online. With a lot of practice and readjusting, many teachers had to learn how to cater to the online learning style and to be able to have the option of logging into class from online and still learn the material is really nice. Professor Nimish executed this balance very well.

I don't really think it was affected by covid that much this spring. It was nice to not have to wear masks the second half of class as well, I think it helped with participation a lot
